TWO IMPORTANT BILLS.

Two measures of importance to the people of Salt Lake will come before the next legislature. One will provide in some form for the building or the preparation for building a state house on the grounds owned by the state on Capitol Hill in this city. The other measure will concern the government of Salt Lake. Two years ago an effort was made by many of the leading citizens of the town to secure a different and less cumbersome form of municipal administration. The effort failed, owing to the opposition of the federal machine, which then believed it could recover the city from the "Americans," who had won the city election over a year before.

As to the state capitol proposition, it is entitled to the fullest consideration. It involves the entire state. It is now twelve years, nearly thirteen, since Utah's admission to the sisterhood of states, and certainly it is time for the state to begin to think of a home. A young married couple, of good habits and well established in the community, would not be highly regarded as possessing good business ability, if after twelve years of married life they had made no start toward the ownership of a home. In the consideration of the plans for a state house, the wealth and importance of the state should ever be kept in mind. Utah is a rich state, with resources that are ever expanding. It can afford a beautiful home—not an extravagant building, but one of artistic appearance and ample in its accommodations for all time to come. Such a structure is well within the means of the state.

As to the Des Moines plan or the Galveston plan of city government, it will be well for the legislature to go slowly. The people of Salt Lake are amply competent to determine the form of government they desire and should have. They sometimes elect inefficient men to office, but in the end the people of Salt Lake themselves have to pay the bills and meet the expense account of bad public servants. Probably before the legislature meets and during its session the sentiment of the community will make itself manifest. There appears at present a desire for a change on the part of men who were violently opposed to a simpler form of government two years ago when there was a good chance of getting it. They seem to want that which they rejected with the greatest animosity in 1907. All of which causes the curious to wonder.

Whatever the people want—irrespective of the desires of the Smoot machine on the one hand and the "American" party on the other—the legislature should grant, for in spite of the "American" victory in this city one year ago and the Republican victory last Tuesday, equally decisive the other way, the great majority of Salt Lake's citizens are heartily sick of both parties and desire nothing more than an opportunity to have their municipal affairs administered without regard to the political fortunes of either combination. Like wounded Mercurio, Salt Lake cries, "A plague of both your houses."

GAINS AND LOSSES.

The Democrats this election have gained Governor Harmon of Ohio, with the state ticket in doubt; Governor Marshall of Indiana, probably the entire state ticket, the state legislature, which will elect a Democratic successor to Senator Hemenway, and eleven out of thirteen congressmen. Governor Shallenberger of Nebraska, four and possibly five out of six congressmen, the entire state ticket, and the state legislature by an overwhelming majority. Governor Shafer of Colorado, three congressmen and the legislature, which will elect Charles J. Hughes United States senator to succeed Senator Teller. The attorney general of Delaware, with the legislature in doubt.

Governors who are retained are Johnson of Minnesota, Burke of North Dakota and Norris of Montana. The Democracy also held the legislature of Missouri, which will re-elect Senator Stone. The state, however, lost a governor and attorney general. Hadley will succeed Folk.

There is a net gain of congressmen of nine. The Democrats already had Senator-elect Chamberlain of Oregon, making a gain of two senators.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITIES.

Let not the youth of the land, with examples of sordid success on every hand, with the wicked apparently prospering and the virtuous suffering, despair or give up the good fight. Merit does not go unrewarded always, even in this era of time serving. The good do prosper now and then, and no young man can tell when fortune will smile upon him.

These profound thoughts are suggested by the reading of the Philadelphia dispatch telling what happened to Frank J. Gorman, a newspaper reporter of 24 years, who got three weeks' leave of absence from his newspaper job to act as secretary of a reform political party in Philadelphia. Young Gorman, being a newspaper reporter, naturally had high ideals, a pure mind, noble thoughts and an ambition to help his fellow man.

The reform party ran out of candidates, a situation legitimately to be expected in Philadelphia, so Secretary Gorman was placed on the ticket as a candidate for county commissioner to fill out the list. Nobody expected that he would be elected. But mark how fortune looks after the deserving! Gorman was elected county commissioner. The place will pay him $5,000 a year for three years, and all he will have to do is to order the election ballots from the printer and read proof on his pay check.

In the face of a case like this, it is idle for the disgruntled pessimist to asseverate that the youth of this country no longer have opportunities. It pays to be good. If Gorman had not been a good young man, that is to say, if he had not been a newspaper reporter, the reform party would have got somebody else to be its secretary and its county commissioner.

So our advice to the youth of the land is to be newspaper reporters first, to get married in August, as Gorman did, to become secretaries of reform parties and thus get $5,000 jobs.

Truly, this is the land of opportunities. Be good, young man, and you will succeed—sometimes.

ANOTHER REAL PRESIDENT.

North America hasn't the only president who can do things to his enemies and the constitution with equal facility and smiling grace. South America is well to the fore with a president who possesses only a literary interest in the written constitution of his country. President Castro of Venezuela likes his position. Possibly even he enjoys it, and also the trouble it enables him to make for the nations of the earth that are reluctant to punish him, because of fear of exciting the ridicule of the world for "picking on a small boy." Venezuela became independent in 1830 and adopted a constitution copied, like most South and Central American constitutions, after the one to which the people of the United States look for counsel. However, the Venezuelans made the term of their president six years and stipulated that their chief executive should never be re-elected.

Castro, however, is believed to intend to retain the presidency. To do so, it will be necessary for him either to override the Venezuelan constitution or to change it. The people of the country are not likely to say him nay to either proposition—not so long as the army remains faithful to the president. For Castro's federal officeholders who do his will and influence elections for him are, like those of President Diaz of Mexico, the military. Castro's term expires in 1911, and not an inconsiderable number of his "subjects," if subjects there can be in a republic, have dared to suggest that he leave office as the constitution requires. It is possible that before this date he will have more trouble from the outside than he has even experienced within his republic. Holland is prepared to blockade the coast of Venezuela, and Great Britain has called attention to the seizure by Venezuelan officers of a merchant vessel flying the Union Jack. England has always been prompt to protect her trading vessels, and undoubtedly will do so, even with weak Venezuela the aggressor. But these are trifles light as air to the debonaire Castro. He has emerged from tighter squeezes and probably will this time, possibly with loss of prestige abroad, but not damaged at home so that he cannot retain the presidency.

TO A FRAZZLE.

Sarcastic and critical to the last, from its perch up the tree it climbed at the beginning of the campaign, the New York World takes this final jab at the president on election morning: "We've got them beaten to a frazzle," chorled Mr. Roosevelt. "Them" in this case refers to the Democrats. But it might likewise refer to the constitution of the United States. Or to the courts. Or to congress. Or to business and prosperity. No other president ever succeeded in beating so many things "to a frazzle."

FAREWELL TO "PETE."

"Pete" Hepburn has been ditched again. The railroad rate bill was named for the Iowa congressman, although the principal part of it was manufactured in the senate. The Hawkeye farmer, however, seems to have been lying in wait for Hepburn. They couldn't be fooled any longer. Hepburn has had quite a notable career, and his defeat causes some surprise. He certainly ranks with Dilliver, Lacey and Hull as a politician, and he has a war record as well. If our memory be good, Hepburn was colonel of the Second Iowa cavalry during the civil war, a regiment that distinguished itself on many battlefields. But it seems that the old soldier game plays out once in a while—so "Pete" is sent to the rear for the second time. They worked the independent Republican racket on him once before, and kept him out for six years. This time his exit is probably final.

Speaker Cannon's place on the Roll of Honor is high. The prayers of the Methodist bishops and the votes of union labor only served to increase his majority. And still we are informed on the high authority of the governor of this state that Mr. Cannon is too profane a man to hold high office.

The Boston Globe doesn't think Mr. Bryan has any reason to complain. Before the election it announced: "Mr. Bryan has every reason to be complacent. He stands a good chance of being elected president Tuesday, and if he is not he will still be an editor."

Ten thousand charitable women of Chicago are to meet once each week to sew for other women who are without clothes. This probably means that henceforth we are to have a fully garbed ballet.

Now that it's all over, we really would like to know all about that $40,000,000 Panama canal deal. There is no good reason why the truth should not be told.

Mr. Taft has promised the country prosperity during the next four years, which probably means that Brother Charles P. sees a way to get his money back.

If Mr. Roosevelt is elected senator for New York, Mr. Taft won't want a second term. Possibly Mr. Roosevelt also won't want another term—in the senate.

There seems to be other people in Missouri besides those who drink whiskey, keep a jack and vote the Democratic ticket.

"Tariff revision—h—h!" That's what Joe Cannon said in Philadelphia a couple of weeks ago.

Banker Morse drew fifteen years in the penitentiary for his part in precipitating the panic. Who comes next?

The only state where the card index failed to work was Nebraska, where it originated.

NURSE TELLS OF BABY'S SUFFERING

Raw with Eczema from Birth—Fearful Itching Lasted for Months—Treatment Futile—Walked the Floor with Him Night and Day—Wasted Away and Got Little Rest.

PERMANENTLY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"The first time I went out as a nurse was when a baby boy was born. He was perfectly raw all over with humor. The doctor gave us some ointment to use, but he got no better. The baby seemed to be suffering terribly, and at times I had to walk the floor with him night and day, sending for my husband to carry him when I could not. His poor little legs became covered with crusts and the doctor decided it was eczema. The fearful itching went on for months, and the little fellow was wasted to a skeleton and could get almost no rest. At last I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, bathing him with Cuticura Soap, using just as little water as possible; then I applied the Cuticura Ointment, and gave him small doses of Cuticura Resolvent. This relieved him almost at once and in a comparatively short time the baby was quite well. Now, thirteen years after, he is a fine boy, in the High School, and he has never had any return of the disease. I have since known of a number of cases of eczema which have been cured by Cuticura, but none, perhaps, as severe as the one I have always recommended Cuticura most highly for skin troubles, and shall continue to do so. Mrs. Elizabeth Howie, Nurse, 76 Grove St., Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 15, '07."

DISFIGURING Humors, Eczemas, and Itchings Cured by Cuticura.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalding head, all demand a remedy of extraordinary virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills are such stands proven by testimonials of remarkable cures when all else has failed.

Cuticura Soap (25c) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (30c) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Pills (50c) for the Form of Chronic Eczema. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.
